

Leadership GBA Volunteer, Nomination and Approval Notice

For more than 50 years, the best and brightest career bankers have participated in Leadership GBA. Participants represent the core group of emerging industry and association leaders. Many current bank CEOs, presidents and other executive management at GBA-member banks were Leadership GBA representatives and officers. Many also served in a variety of leadership positions for GBA's Board, geographic groups and volunteer committees.

We encourage each bank to have at least one Leadership GBA Representative. However, there's no limit to the number of representatives a bank can have, and it is a great way to expose mid- and upper-level career bankers to the key leadership skills and information they need for success in our business.

Here are four reasons why your bank should have one or more Leadership GBA Representatives.

1. A Powerful Resource: Leadership GBA provides a strong peer network for sharing ideas and problem solving with other emerging leaders across the state.
2. Exclusive Information: Participants get the same regular updates member CEOs get with the most current information about the economy, legislative issues facing the banking industry and current leadership training through weekly GBA e-Bulletins, a special quarterly Leadership Notes e-publication and other special communications.
3. Annual Leadership Conference: With content modeled after the GBA Annual Convention, this event is structured to expose your emerging leaders to top industry experts in government affairs, regulatory issues, the economy and industry-specific topics.
4. Financial Literacy Program: Leadership GBA coordinates this program that helps educate consumers in your communities and benefits the industry's public image.

These are just a few examples of how the entire Leadership GBA experience is a valuable benefit to the bank, emerging leaders and ultimately your customers. Please complete the following information, as appropriate, and return it to GBA's Jennifer Stevens by email, jstevens@gabankers.com, or by fax 404.522.9848.
